

Kay Warner

Kay Warner is a Director within the Patients in Partnership team at GlaxoSmithKline Research and Development.

Kay moved to her current role as Patient Engagement Lead in January 2017 and is patient engagement subject matter expert at GSK. She is also responsible for leading an internal global programme entitled 'Focus on the Patient'. This programme helps our employees understand patient needs and inspires them to do more to help improve the lives of patients. This work has included interaction with many individual patients, caregivers, patient advocates, patient advocacy organisations and health care providers.

With her passion to make a difference in research and development, Kay is working to strengthen the patient voice in medicines development and research at key decision time points. She also represents GSK in the European Patients' Academy (EUPATI) project. Kay is the industry lead for EUPATI-UK. She is also supporting the new IMI2 project Patients Active in Research and Dialogues for an Improved Generation of Medicines (PARADIGM) which started in March 2018.

GlaxoSmithKline – we are a science-led global healthcare company with a mission: we want to help people to do more, feel better, live longer.
