

Eiko Shimizu

Dr. Shimizu graduated from Tokyo Institute of Technology, where she obtained BS and MS in statistics. She started her business career at McKinsey as a strategic management consultant, and developed her global career both in Japan and in the U.S.

Her career in the medical industry started in 2000 with Edwards Lifesciences as a marketing director and pursued her roles in marketing pharmaceutical products at IMS (present IQVIA) and Glaxo SmithKline. GSK has become one of the leading companies in medical data analytics with her contribution,

Dr. Shimizu has furthered her interest in regulatory sciences in medicine and studied at the Tokyo Medical and Dental University, where she obtained MMA and PhD in 2014.

At present, she is a project associate professor at Pharmaco-Business Innovation, Graduate School of Pharmaceutical Sciences, the University of Tokyo.